NEW COUNTY IS SEEN IN HINTERLAND

With Survey and Development of Vast Region North of Grand Canyon Another County, Rich in Resources, May Appear

The survey and subsequent development of the vast hinterland north of the Grand Canyon may result in the creation of a new county, equal in resources to any in the state, according to State Land Commissioner W. A. Moer, who has just returned from a trip through northern Arizona. On all sides the commissioner learned of the great undeveloped riches of northern Mohave and Coconino counties, and of the desire of the people that the land be opened for settlement in the near future.

There are between a million and a million and a half acres of unsurveyed land north of the canyon, said Mr. Moer yesterday, "and a great deal of this is suitable for dry farming or for grazing land. In the valleys, I was told there are to be found many very desirable locations for small farms, where dry farming could be successfully carried on, while on the mesas range cattle find good grazing. Once the land is surveyed and can be taken up by the state or by individuals, there will be a great influx of people from Utah, and it is altogether likely that a new county will be created."

There is no doubt that some crossing of the Colorado river will be opened up and this great and little known country connected with the rest of Arizona. Already there is a splendid highway leading from St. George, Utah to Salt Lake City, via Lund, on the railroad, and a road through the country north of the canyon would be assured. Three auto stage lines are now in operation over the Utah road from Lund to St. George, but a few miles north of the Arizona line.

Commissioner Moer attended the good roads conference at Flagstaff, and then went to Kingman in connection with certain land investigations. He found the town crowded, and all available accommodations taken long before bed time. Hundreds are still pouring into the district, attracted by the news of new and rich strikes at Oatman and vicinity and evidences of prosperity are seen on every hand.

HEAVENLY COURT SITS NOW JUDGING MANKIND

Judgment for eternal life or death now is being passed upon all mankind by the Almighty, and from that decision there will be no appeal, according to Elder E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference of the Seventh-Day Adventists, who started his hearers with this statement during his sermon at the annual camp-meeting at the Adventists at North Tenth and Pierce streets last night. "Right now it is court week in heaven," he said. "God sits as the judge, and Jesus Christ stands as the lawyer and mediator between God and guilty man. Every man, woman and child in the world is being judged according to their works. Only as man accepts Jesus as his attorney in that court can he be acquitted."

The speaker said the judgment has been in session since 1844 and soon will be over.

Officers for the year were elected at yesterday morning's session. These were as follows: President, J. Ernest Bond; secretary and treasurer, Claude Conrad; executive committee, J. Ernest Bond, C. D. M. Williams, I. P. Dillon, Clem Stump, A. E. Earll, legal corporation, president J. Ernest Bond; board, Clem Stump, C. D. M. Williams, A. E. Earll, R. E. Kalfus; school board, J. Ernest Bond, L. B. Ragsdale, C. D. M. Williams, Clem Stump, A. E. Earll, R. E. Kalfus and D. L. Wagner.

The constitution was changed, making representatives of the North American Division conference of the Adventists delegates to the annual meetings, when they are present. The division conference has been created since the constitution was adopted.

GRAHAM COUNTY TAX LEVY IS TOO HIGH

That Graham county has exceeded the ten per cent tax limit by over $11,000 was determined yesterday by the state tax commission, following the filing of a complaint by Gibson Taylor, attorney for the Arizona Eastern railroad company. The commission has asked the attorney general for an opinion as to whether the levy in this instance was within the authority of the board of supervisors. The excess was occasioned by the levy of a special tax of $18,000 to pay the entire cost of a new bridge across the Gila river, the plan being to pay the entire sum in one year. It is contended by the complainant that the board of supervisors had no right to exceed the ten per cent limit in this case.

Validity of a decree, the owners being directed by a decree to turn over their property to the Villa representatives. The letters were signed by Sylvester Terrazas, secretary of state. Strong representations were made to the state department representatives here by cattlemen who based the state's position on the petition of the state department, which requested an embargo on beef and beef products.

AMUSEMENTS

Empress

"The Second in Command," a fine feature with Francis X. Bushman, loved and adored by thousands of patrons of the movies, will make his last appearance in "The Second in Command" tonight, being ably supported by another favorite star, Margaret Snow.

"Second in Command," produced by The Quality Pictures Corporation, and released on the Metro program, is full of action and with a love story woven through it all to make the five reels a heart-grIPPING, human interest feature, staged with some of the most beautiful scenery that beautiful California affords. The large crowd that witnessed it last evening had nothing but the highest praise for it, declaring that they were satisfied that it deserved the honors received at the San Francisco exposition.

It was produced from Clyde Fitch's military drama, which Charles Frohman made the vehicle for his star, John Drew. Shows begin at 7:15 and 9 o'clock.

Last Appearance of Maud Allan at Arizona Today

On receipt of word that Maud Allan, the world famous dancer, had been secured as star in "The Rug Maker's Daughter" all other productions of Bosworth, Inc., were sidetracked until its completion. Some idea of the lavishness with which "The Rug Maker's Daughter" has been mounted is conveyed in the $75,000 oriental rug which hangs upon the wall of the New York rug shop in the latter half of the picture, and is but one of a score of striking details.

This rug was specially secured from the $250,000 collection of Frank L. Loftus of Los Angeles. It was woven in the early seventeenth century for the reigning Sultan of Turkey, as can be deduced from the private sign manual of the sultan's worked in the center. It is pure silk, consisting of 810 hand tied knots to the square inch, and took its weaver over seven years to complete. Because of its great value the historic rug has never been shown in public. The use of such a prize as a mere accessory hints at the mounting of "The Rug Maker's Daughter," which Bosworth, Inc., in association with Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company. This will be shown tonight for the last time, as well as the Paramount South American series.

Many's "After Dark" at the Lion. Brady's "After Dark" at the Lion. Brady's greatest success was "After Dark," in which he took the part of Old Tom. It has been placed into film-form and Alec B. Francis gives a splendid portrayal of the same character, with Dorothy Green in the leading feminine role. The film presentation is in five reels, and is shown at the Lion theater today for the last time. It is a picture full of exciting situations and scene after scene is full of the kind of action that makes a successful photo-play. The story begins during the Spanish-American war and is so interesting that it holds the attention from start to finish. Ring W. Lardner's baseball stories have been made into comedies, and "You Know Me, Al," is on the program today and is so out of the ordinary that it may safely be said to be refreshing.

Tomorrow the Lion will present the well-known actress, Irene Fenwick, in "The Woman Next Door," from the stage play by Owen Davis. This is the first of the new Kline-Edison feature service which will be shown exclusively at the Lion, and will present film-plays from standard books and stage successes.

At the Coliseum Tonight. Tonight is change night again at the Coliseum, where the Southern Rosebuds offer a pleasing comedy, entitled "Boy Wanted." This show has some very funny characters in it, and is built funny for your benefit, and if you come and see it and don't laugh, you are sick. Catchy singing and dancing; pretty girls and funny comedians.

The Lamara. "The Face in the Moonlight," the feature picture at the Lamara theater, again proved to be really an interesting story with a touch of the war spirit in it that pervades nearly all plays that deal of the Napoleonic era. Robert Warwick takes two parts in this picture. In one he is an aristocrat, while in the other he is the half-brother. The two-reel Essanay Charlie Chaplin proved to be a real

FILM PUBLICITY TO BE DISCUSSED TODAY

While in Phoenix to film news happenings for Pathe's Weekly, C. W. Felt, general manager of the Great Western Film company of National City, Cal., is being interviewed by the chamber of commerce on an advertising stunt. Felt will meet with the advertising committee of the chamber this morning at nine, in order to talk over a new form of publicity for the valley.

Felt spent yesterday at Scottsdale, where he filmed Vice President Marshall in the bosom of his family, and in his Arizona surroundings.

Amusu. The Amusu today is offering a 3 reel drama, "After Her Millions," "The Smugglers' Island," a comedy in two reels, will complete the program. The crowds which have been attending the houses are loud in their praises of the pictures shown since the opening. And it is the announced policy of the management to continue to please.
